HOLLWEG OUT FOR GOOD

Chancellor's Resignation Accepted as Result of Crown Prince's Inbuance.—Prussian War Minister Resigns.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Germany's serious internal crisis overshadowed the pending military operations in the news of the day. The reports from Berlin show that the reichstag has gone on a strike against the crown and military party apparently in the interest of a parliamentary system of government.

There is even a rumor, although entirely unconfirmed and little credited, that Emperor William has abdicated in favor of his sixth and favorite son, Prince Joachim.

The peace clamor is growing both in Germany and Austria-Hungary. A part of the trouble between the reichstag and government class is over the government's persistent declaration to state Germany's peace terms on a basis of non-annexation, demanded by what now comprises a majority block of the reichstag.

The war credit is being held up by the majority until the political crisis is settled. But more serious yet is the decision of the members not even to meet meanwhile for discussion in regular session or in committee.

Crown Prince Aids Junkers.
Apparently the crown prince is waging a fight for control on behalf of militaristic interests. Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg is under fire from the crown prince and his supporters, the chancellor seemingly being too liberally inclined to suit the heir to the throne.

On the military side the situation continues to bear a most encouraging aspect for the formidable group of nations allied against the central powers, this general feeling being taken from the situation in Berlin and Vienna.

The Russian revolutionary armies in Galicia are still sweeping forward. Apparently there is little to stop them pouring through a breach in the lines in eastern Galicia, opened by General Korotkiy. They are pushing on north to the Dniester and west of the Lomnica and generally provoking victories in fighting going on along a fifty mile front.

On the Italian front a waiting policy is being pursued by General Haig on the British end of the line and General Petain in the French action. There has been no local fighting by either group of armies.

Copenhagen, July 14.—The Berlin news Bureau of Germany circulates without accepting any responsibility for it a statement by the Taegische Rundschau that the resignation of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, is considered certain.

Hollweg's Retirement Certain.
Basel, Switzerland, July 14.—A dispatch from the semi-official Wolff Bureau of Berlin says the resignation of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the imperial chancellor, is considered certain.

By means of a skillful play on words, Theodor Wolff intimates that the crown prince is supporting the movement to unseat Von Bethmann. In case of the chancellor's retirement, he writes, the activity of the crown prince would be interpreted in a manner not calculated to increase the chances of peace.

War Minister Quits.
Bern, Switzerland, July 14.—An official telegram from Berlin says General Von Stein, the Prussian minister of war, has resigned.

The Prussian war office is in reality the imperial ministry of war, performing the functions of that office for the empire.

Lieutenant General Von Stein was the commander of the home forces before the war and also served as quartermaster general. He was placed in command of the 14th reserve army corps in September, 1914, and became minister of war in the cabinet of Count Czernin, the Austrian foreign minister, who has come out for peace without annexation.

Local Anzeiger Suppressed.
Copenhagen, July 14.—The Berlin local Anzeiger has been suppressed indefinitely by military authorities. The reason is not given, but presumably it is on account of an attack on Austria-Hungary in connection with statements by Count Czernin, the Austrian foreign minister, who has come out for peace without annexation.

Prince Sounds Deputies.
According to Berlin newspapers the crown prince in interviews Thursday with Reichstag party leaders, including Herr David and other socialists, interested himself chiefly in obtaining from the deputies their views on the person and policy of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg.

The crown prince is reported to have said he was doing this in accordance with the wish of Emperor William.

Discovery Reduces
Cost of Producing
Glycerine for War

Washington, July 14.—Discovery in the internal revenue division laboratory of a process of manufacturing glycerine from sugar was announced today by the treasury department.

Under the secret process evolved the cost of this substance, a heavy factor in the manufacture of explosives, will be reduced to slightly more than one-fourth of its present cost.

Glycerine is at present manufactured almost entirely from fat at a cost of five cents a pound, which is six times its cost of production. In the war, extraction of the product from sugar will insure production, officials estimate, at 25 cents a pound or less. The immense importance of the discovery in conserving the fat supply of the nation is pointed out by officials who declare Germany's fat shortage is largely due to the use of fat for the production of explosives.

Germany has long since been forced to discontinue the use of soap in order to conserve fats for munitions making.

Discovery is the first to be announced by chemists working in co-operation with the council of national defense.

The morning paper appears to have had no intimation of the impending strike of the Reichstag deputies and the emperor's summons to the reichstag. They devote their columns to a discussion of the Prussian franchise reforms and the demand for liberal reform and the proclamation of a moderate peace program should have made possible the supplementing of Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg by the chancellor's candidate Prince von Buelow, with whom Von Buelow by comparison is almost a radical and an avowed believer in annexationism.

Exchange Telegraph Company from Copenhagen says it is officially reported from Berlin that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg, chief of general staff, and General Ludendorff, who had been summoned to Berlin by Emperor William arrived in the capital yesterday morning. The Tagesspiegel, the chief of general staff, with the crown prince and late were received by the emperor.

DRAINAGE BILL IS BIG QUESTION IN THE LEGISLATURE

Madison, July 14.—Drainage laws were the center of a storm before the Wisconsin legislature today. Governor Philipp vetoed the Whitte bill relating to farm drainage. At the request of the executive office, Assemblyman Carl Hansen offered a bill changing the big drainage act now pending before the executive. It is said that unless the Hansen amendment is incorporated the governor will veto the big drainage act.

Assemblyman Eviner asked that the amendment to the drainage bill be overruled Monday, but he had an opportunity to confer with members of the legislature. The Hansen amendment changed one of the main features of the bill. In the bill drainage is made paramount and the drainage board has the power to order removal of any dam that effects drainage.

It is the contention of the governor that this provision of the bill cannot permit the financing of dams to be made. The governor's veto is based on the ground that it was unnecessary and some of the provisions were vicious.

Short sessions were held in each house this morning and adjournment was taken until Monday morning. In the senate prayers were offered by Samuel Banks, the popular colored messenger of the executive office.

FAMOUS ANARCHIST
HELD FOR MURDER

San Francisco, California, July 14.—Alexander Berkman, an anarchist, was indicted by the county grand jury here last night for the murder in connection with a bomb explosion last July which claimed ten lives, it became known today.

Berkman is now serving a term of two years in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga., for conspiracy to defeat the draft law. District Attorney Pickert said every effort will be made to bring Berkman here for trial before the expiration of his sentence.

Jury Disappears.
John T. Welby, a juror in the trial of Mrs. Rena Mooney for murder, growing out of a bomb explosion which cost ten lives here last July, disappeared today while the jury was inspecting the point connecting with the blast.

Welby is seventy-nine years old.

REPUBLICAN FORCES
AGAIN RULE CHINA

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Washington, July 14.—The complete occupation of Peking by republican forces following the surrender of the army of 10,000 men, indicates the complete restoration of the republic. The Chinese legation here declared today that the capital was restored with few casualties.

Three Americans were wounded by stray bullets, the war department announced today, in ten hours' fighting in which Chinese republican troops forced the surrender of monarchial troops of General Chang Hsun.

HOLWAY ISSUES ORDER

Adjutant General Sends Out Instructions on Organizing and Carling
For Men—May Go To Camp
Soon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., July 14.—Upwards of 12,000 men in Wisconsin military companies not already in the service will be called to the colors tomorrow. Under order of the president and by direction of Adjutant General Holway the men will be assembled at their local armories during Sunday. The general notification to assemble was wired to all of the different organizations during Friday.

Because of the lack of equipment to take care of the men those at a great distance from the local armory will be placed on furlough and other enlisted men will be permitted to sleep in their homes. Fearing that such an action would be imperative Adjutant General Orlando Holway has wired to the central department his plan of allowing the men to sleep at home and this has been approved. General Holway last night sent the following instructions to all new companies as to the plan of organizing and carrying out the plan, especially directing his efforts to get the new units into shape for service.

Company commanders will select their own drill grounds. Commanders will immediately notify all reservists who have been furloughed to the reserve from their several commands to report on July 15th at the station of the organization from which they are furloughed, or as soon thereafter as the necessary travel will permit.

Organization commanders will also directly upon receipt of this circular mail to Lieutenant Colonel Charles R. Williams, disbursing officer at Camp Douglas, Wisconsin, a list giving the names of all reservists who reside at their homes, their organization and their last reported address.

All officers are enjoined to consult and carefully follow Special Regulations No. 55, W. D., and especially section II, thereof. On account of the extraordinary shortage of blankets, coats and other equipment, it is advised that enlisted men be generally permitted to sleep at their homes, and that they cannot report daily be temporarily furnished with their comfort can be provided at the armory.

A large proportion of the medical officers of the guard being now absent in training camp service, it is advised that where no medical officer of the guard is on station, the examination to detect contagious diseases be made by a competent resident physician.

(Signed) "Orlando Holway,
The Adjutant General."

BANKS SHOW LOSS;
DUE TO NEW FORM

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

New York, July 14.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies today shows that they hold $38,144,940 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is a decrease of $242,308,950 from last week.

Statements which eliminate all reserves of member institutions except those held by federal reserve banks, accounted largely for this enormous decrease in reserves.

BADGER MISSIONARY

NATIONAL FETE DAY
OBSERVED IN PARIS
WITH DEEP FERVOR

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Paris, July 14.—France today celebrated its national fete with fervor and quiet joy unknown in many years. The Russian revolution has made Frenchmen realize more vividly the meaning of the great epoch which, dawning in America in 1776, culminated in France in 1789 in a grand revolution, whose spirit after over a century is about to have its full fruition in the destruction of the last vestige of absolutism by the forces of allied democracy.

"It is a pity," says Paul Deschanel, president of the chamber of deputies, in a message to the Journal, "that the Germans cannot see that national fete—they who have us to be starving, and at the end of our resources."

"In the month of April, notwithstanding magnificent results, we did not realize our duty. Since then a noble leader, who has had nothing but success in this war, a great infantryman, a wise, upright and clear mind, has been put at the head of our army. Already the Russians are fulfilling their pledges, and here are the Americans bringing us their powerful support, not only in money, aeroplanes and ships, but in men and guns."

America's intervention while a decisive verdict on the justice of our cause, is a sure guarantee of victory. It makes it more than ever our duty to hold on."

In the detachment guarding the colors of the 106th infantry in today's review was a white bearded sergeant, wearing a medal of 1870 and the war cross with several stars and palms. His name is Le Mehnager. He was in the United States in 1870, but returned to fight for his country.

He was sent to Los Angeles, where he made his fortune. He heard the call of duty again in 1914, and left for France with his wife and four daughters. Notwithstanding his sixty-four years, he enlisted, has fought for three years and has been wounded. He was promoted to the rank of sergeant, and is now to be the oldest man in the ranks of the French army.

DANBURY HATTERS LOSE JUDGMENT IN LONG BOYCOTT CASE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Danbury, Conn., July 14.—An agreement for a settlement of the judgment of $252,000 and costs in the case of D. E. Loewe and Company against members of the United Hatters of North America, was announced this afternoon after a short conference between the lawyers and union officers representing the Hattants.

The amount paid by the union was not officially stated by any member in union. When organized, it is learned that the settlement was for approximately two-thirds of the amount of the judgment and cost. Martin Lawler, secretary of the United Hatters, said in response to a statement for the press, "You can say that the Loewe and Company bleed the United Hatters for the sake of a few dollars."

Loewe and Company had been in a boycott of the product of the Loewe factory after the firm refused to make their shop a closed one. At the time in union when organized, the person trying to unionize all factories in Danbury, litigation was almost continuous until recently when final judgment was secured by the firm. It was moved in United States court to recover judgment.

It has been claimed that throughout the many years of litigation there has been no personal animosity between Loewe and his former employees.

BUILD NEW SHIPYARDS
FOR U. S. WAR FLEET

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Washington, July 14.—Major General Goethals, manager of the shipbuilding board's emergency fleet corporation, on Monday will offer contracts for construction of government shipbuilding plants to produce four hundred steel merchant ships. The general said he expects to turn out 3,000,000 tons of shipping within eight months.

The board will continue to let all contracts for wooden ships, General Goethals said, and added that contracts for steel and wooden vessels will require more money than congress has authorized.

General Goethals will also outline to shipbuilders his plans for commencing 1,500,000 tons of shipping under construction for private account which will be taken over and completed. As soon as the yards are cleared, each will be directed to start building a standardized ship.

ITALY REFUSES TO EXTRADITE COCCHI

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Rome, July 14.—The ministry of foreign affairs yesterday notified the American embassy that it was impossible to extradite Alfredo Cocchi, the slayer of Ruth Gruger, without violating the fundamental law of the country.

Peter A. Jay, charged d' affairs, during the absence of Ambassador Page, called at the foreign office, and was told that the ministry regretted it was unable to satisfy the desire of the United States to have Cocchi sent back, especially now in view of the relations of Italy and America.

Columbus, N. M., July 14.—Closely guarded by United States cavalry from Douglas, Arizona, the special freight train carrying deported strikers and others from Hermanas, N. M., arrived here this morning. The deported men will be placed in detention camps here pending further instructions from the federal government.

Army Command in Charge.
Hermanas, N. M., July 14.—James J. Holbrook, United States of America, with a command of 192 officers and men, arrived here this morning on a special train from Douglas, Arizona, to take the 1,200 Bishbee exiles to Columbus, N. M. Work of loading the men onto the trains was begun immediately.

The soldiers were assisted in the work by Sheriff Simpson of Luna county, N. M., and the five deputies he kept with him here last night to preserve order. The embarkation of the exiles for Columbus was orderly. The men will be housed in the stockade built during the border troubles, to care for Mexican refugees, and will be fed by the government.

Advices from El Paso were that General Bell explicitly stated that the men would not be prisoners. Their removal to Columbus is a temporary expedient, it was stated, to prevent suffering.

The men who were left in their cars on a sidetrack here at midnight Thursday night, passed last night in their cars. Their lot was bettered somewhat by a carload of provisions which arrived from El Paso and at the same time the men in the stockade built during the border troubles, to care for Mexican refugees, and will be fed by the government.

A census of the exiles showed that 312 had registration cards under the selective draft law and 142 were the owners of liberty bonds.

Cavalry Preserves Order.
Globe, Ariz., July 14.—Two troops of cavalry will be sent from here to take the exiles to Columbus, N. M., and the five deputies he kept with him here last night to preserve order. The embarkation of the exiles for Columbus was orderly. The men will be housed in the stockade built during the border troubles, to care for Mexican refugees, and will be fed by the government.

INSIDE EXPLOSION
BLOWS UP BRITISH
WARSHIP; 2 SAVED

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

London, July 14.—The British battleship Vanguard blew up and sank on July 9, say an official statement is issued tonight by the British admiralty. An internal explosion while the ship was at anchor caused the disaster. Only three men of those on board survived, and one of these, has since died. Twenty-four officers and seventy-one men, however, were not on board at the time of the explosion.

It is probable that the loss of life will total more than 800. Before the war the Vanguard had a complement of 870 men.

Report on Sinking.
The official statement reads: "H. S. Vanguard, Capt. James D. Dick, blew up while at anchor on the night of July 9 as the result of an internal explosion."

The ship sank immediately and there were only three survivors among those aboard ship at the time of the disaster—one officer and two men. The officer had since died. There were, however, twenty-four officers and seventy-one men not on board at the time, thus bringing the total number of survivors to ninety-seven.

"A full inquiry has been ordered." "Transport Sunk; 11 Lost."
London, July 14.—The British transport Armadale, 5,200 tons, has been sunk by submarine, it is officially announced. Eleven men are reported missing.

FRANCE IS DRESSING
A LA AMERICANE NOW

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

London, July 14.—A correspondent in Paris calls attention to the predominating "American note" in French fashions this year. He writes:

"There is an American accent about all the new French clothes. It is difficult to define, but it is here. Some of the dressmakers when they went on strike carried the Stars and Stripes, and when asked why, as they were agitating mainly for the English Week-end, they should carry the American flag, replied, 'Oh, it is the prettiest.' The same logic is applied to clothes. American women have always dressed well, and do not mind the cost, so it is to the Paris dress-makers' advantage to make clothes for them."

"I can show a strong American note. The soft felt hat that turned up on one side is worn with a touch of cowboy swagger. The light muslin dress is also an American fashion. Shoes and trappings show a similar inspiration. In fact, to be dressed 'a l'Americaine' is very much the thing."

Guglielmo Marconi.

That Italy saved the allies from overwhelming defeat at the beginning of the war, is the contention of Guglielmo Marconi, wireless inventor and member of the Italian mission now in the United States. He points out that when the war started Italy was in alliance with Germany. Had Italy kept France in debt as to her hand, it would have been necessary to station a million men on the Franco-Italian frontier. This would have weakened General Joffre's forces to such an extent that the Germans would have taken Paris.

SISLER, ST. LOUIS, BESTS SPEAKER IN BATTING AVERAGES

Chicago, July 14.—With an average of .330, George Sisler, the youthful first base star with St. Louis, has bettered his way to second place in the American league, according to unofficial averages released today. This Speaker of Cleveland, forced to third place, is trailing two points behind Sisler. Although failing in his attempt to break his record for consecutive hitting, Ty Cobb is safely out in front with .375.

Thrown temporarily off his batting stride due to a sprained thumb, Sisler picked up remarkably in his last eight games. He drove out 17 hits, five of them triples and three doubles, and boosted his average nineteen points.

Cobb's speed in running bases has given him possession of scoring honors. The Georgian has crossed the plate 22 times in 17 games. He also leads in total base hitting, having driven out 109 hits for 163 bases. Twenty of his blows were doubles, thirteen triples and one home run.

Chapman of Cleveland, dethroned Roth, his teammate, for the lead in base stealing with a total of 27. He also increased his lead in sacrifice hitting by 41. Pipp of New York, with six circuit drives, is showing the way to the home run blitters. Detroit maintained its lead in team batting with an average of .254. The averages include games of Wednesday.

INTERESTING BALL GAME AT THE JEFFERSON SCHOOL.

On Friday afternoon the team composed of the Jefferson school boys and girls won a hotly contested game with the Adams school girls' team at the Jefferson school diamond. The final score of 34 to 3 does not tell the full story of the game which was most interesting to a large gallery of spectators.

MORRIS MILLER

Tom McCarthy was beyond a doubt one of the most wonderful outfielders baseball has known. He had more wiles and stratagems up his sleeve than most entire baseball nines. He it was who introduced the "trapped ball" on outfield flies. This play became very popular and soon after its discovery almost every outfielder was attempting it. With little success, though. He could never make it work as McCarthy did.

To "trap" a fly is to scoop it up just as it hits the ground—in other words make a pickup of it. When a man on bases sees an easy fly going to an outfielder it is his nature to hold his base. When the outfielder lets the ball hit the ground then the man can easily be forced.

In one game McCarthy, playing with the Boston Nationals against their famous rival, Baltimore, worked the "trap" for two double plays. In the first, McCarthy, on first, and second, the batter sent out a short fly directly at McCarthy. The runners held their bases. Tom, instead of catching it, did the scoop act, and drove the ball in to second. The runner on first was forced out and the man from second was caught between the bases and easily run down.

Somewhere along the trench lines in Europe the Germans will be introduced to the real thing in Americans in a short time. Most of them are good sports and all of them full-blooded American Indians, former students at the Carlisle school, from which Jim Thorpe, who once stirred up Europe at the Olympic games, was a graduate.

Welsh Teesateski, football star; Isaac Willis, a track performer, and Edward Thorpe, a brother of the famous Jim—but not his equal as an athlete—and a half dozen others are in the navy and five have joined the engineer corps.

Superintendent Francis of the school has announced that in spite of the depletion of the football squad by enlistment and graduation, football will be continued at the institution this fall and the schedule as arranged carried out, whether the team is worthy of the reputation of the school or not.

He is a firm believer in the game as a developer of the physical Indian, and one that gives the redskin his greatest pleasure as well as helping to develop him mentally in right thinking and quick thinking as well.

Carl Morris has obviously missed his vocation. He is trying to win the heavy weight boxing championship by employing catch as catch can and Greco-Roman tactics. It is questionable if he succeeds, for some referee who knows the boxing rules and is not afraid to enforce them will disqualify the Oklahoma mauler.

As a wrestler glory and cash await Morris. His wonderful strength, which enables him to rush sturdily across the ring and pin them helplessly against the ropes would aid him in fastening strangle and Nelson holds on men like Caddock, Zibby and Lewis and hanging on till they collapsed.

Morris is tireless, and does not give an opponent a chance to take a long breath. This would be a valuable asset in grappling. Morris would not star with a wrestling opponent, but would come to grips at once and insist on a settlement of the question of supremacy.

Third place is Matty's goal. The Reds are setting Cincinnati on fire.

BREAD CARDS USED AT BIRTH OF CHRIST

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Alkmaar, Netherlands, July 14.—The bread card, that familiar European product of the present great clash of nations, is nearly 2,000 years old. That is the discovery of a Dutch professor, Doctor M. Moltzer, who asserts that it was in use in Rome under the Emperor Augustus, in whose reign Christ was born.

Moreover, not only did Romans have their bread cards and their government grain, a term that has become so familiar in Holland, but government intervention in ancient Rome evoked as much discontent and friction between public and bread purveyors as has been the case in these modern days.

SAXON "SIX"

A Fine Quality All-Year Car

Saxon "Six" Convertible Sedan

Now—with this Saxon "Six" Convertible Sedan—you have a car equally as able, equally as comfortable in winter as in summer.

For warm weather driving when you want to feel every breeze that's blowing simply lower the windows, take out the side supports and drop them in the concealed rear pocket.

It is the work of but a minute. Then you have to all purposes an open touring car with a permanent top.

For cold and rainy weather merely slip in the supports, raise the windows, and you have all the comfort and protection from wind and weather that a costly limousine affords.

The beautiful designed body is of metal. The upholstery is overstuffed with a fine gray, all-wool, Bedford whipcord. A dome light sheds its soft lustre throughout the car.

The front seats are of the Pullman style, slightly pitched to heighten your riding comfort. There is an aisle between them.

Three people find ample space in the roomy rear seat. And as further convenience there are arm slings and a foot rail. There are five wire wheels included as standard equipment. And the price is $1265, f. o. b. Detroit.

Long Life to Your Car

What You Have a Right to Expect of Your Oil

There is a trend in automobile manufacture at present towards smaller high-speed engines, a number of cars being equipped with engines capable of an engine speed of from 2000 to 2600 revolutions per minute.

Try to visualize these figures.

During a single minute, at a speed of 2600 R. P. M., in a six-cylinder motor, each piston passes through the four cycles of intake, compression, power and exhaust no less than 1300 times!

More than 21 complete cycles in each cylinder, or a total of 130 complete cycles in all six cylinders, within a single second!

Every second the carburetor must furnish 130 complete charges of gas—the magneto 130 individual sparks, and 130 times in a second the temperature at point of ignition reaches the almost inconceivable figure of nearly 3,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

During each second the six pistons, each with a bore of, say, 3 3/4 and a stroke of 4 1/2 inches, would travel a lineal distance of 195 feet, rubbing over a surface equivalent to a path 195 feet in length and 10 1/2 inches in width—a total surface area of 165 3/4 square feet per second.

When you realize that a film of oil rarely more than 3-1000 of an inch in thickness—about the thickness of this sheet of paper—furnishes the lubrication which makes these speeds possible, you will appreciate how vital the correct lubricant is to the efficient operation of your engine.

Without that film of oil between pistons and cylinder walls the pistons, even at very low speeds, would bind and seize in a short time.

With an oil of poor quality, you invite the penalty of scored cylinder walls, scored pistons, and broken piston rings.

If the body of the oil is incorrect, the same results may follow even if the quality of the oil be of the best.

You have a right to expect that the oil you use will meet both in quality and body the conditions which must be met inside the cylinders of your engine.

Mobiloil is the cheapest to use—because it is the best. And it does not cost you any more than the inferior kind.

It is sold in the following grades: E, A, B and Arctic.

5-gallon cans, with can, for $2.75.

"E" is a light body oil.

"A" is a medium oil.

"B" is a heavy oil for motorcycles and 12-cylinder cars.

Arctic is a light medium oil.

The Mobile Oil Company engineers have studied and tested their oil on all cars manufactured and have made up a chart to tell which grade should be used in your car.

Come and consult this chart and get "correct lubrication" for your car.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

If all who hate would love us,
And all our loves were true,
The stars that swing above us
Would brighten in the blue;
If cruel words were kisses,
And every scowl a smile,
A better world than this
Would hardly be worth while;
If purses would not be tight,
To meet a brother's need,
The load we bear would lighten
Above the grave of greed.

If those who whine would whistle,
And those who languish laugh,
The rose would rout the thistle,
The grain outturn the chaff;
If hearts were only joy,
If grieving were forgot,
And fears of melancholy
Were things that now are not,
Then love would kneel to duty,
Then all the world would seem
A bridal bower of beauty,
A dream within a dream.

If men would cease to worry,
And women would not sigh,
And all be glad to bury
Whatever has to die;
If neighbor spoke to neighbor,
As love demands of all,
The curse would not be uttered,
The spear stay on the wall;
Then every day would gladden,
And every eye would shine,
And God would pause and listen,
And life would be divine.

The editorial page of a paper is the page of opinion. The reporters and news gatherers are supposed to give the news unbiased, but editorial writers are supposed to digest the news, and comment on it as the policy of the paper, or their own judgment may suggest.

It is a mistaken notion that the press moulds public opinion. Questions are constantly being discussed where public sentiment is divided. It is often supposed that so little thought has been given, that no public sentiment has been formed, but the paper discusses it, either for or against, and crystallizes scattered sentiment, until the reader adopts and often uses the same arguments.

The editorial page of the Saturday Gazette has long been monopolized by this homely feature called "Our Saturday Night." These weekly spasms are seldom profound and not always logical. They are not intended to be, as they appeal to the heart more than to the brain. Their object is to encourage a bond of fellowship on the human interest side of life, and to develop a spirit of helpfulness, as we trudge along the rugged highway to better.

The writer has pronounced opinions on many questions, but tries to avoid discussing them offensively in these Saturday night talks. Once in a while righteous indignation demands expression, as it does just now in the discussion of American citizenship.

The notion prevails in certain circles, and among pacifists, that this nation has no business being engaged in war, and that the question is still open to discussion. Our own Senator Robert M. La Follette belongs to this class, and in a lengthy article in his own magazine, recently attempted to defend his position.

The time has passed for discussing the question of whether or not we ought to be at war, because the issue is settled, and we are at war. Discussing a dead issue is never profitable, and in this instance it is harmful, because it recognizes two classes of citizens, the loyal and disloyal.

This country has long been noted for its patience and forbearance. We have harbored anarchists from the old world, and all kinds of imported scoundrels from across the sea.

We have tolerated the I. W. W. workers and all sorts of fanatics with a grace, but the day of toleration has passed, so far as loyalty is concerned. There is only one kind of an American citizen today. It matters not where he was born, or what his environment. He is either for us or against us. There is no neutral ground. The man or the woman who is against this free land, which has furnished so much in the way of shelter, protection and opportunity, had better get out and go while the going is good.

Judge Landis disposed of one hundred and thirty hucksters at Freeport, the other day, by sending them to the House of Correction for a year with plenty of hard labor, but the slunkers are not confined to men of military age. They are scattered over the country, "stealing off their mouths" at a time when the nation is calling for men to protect and defend it. If that is loyalty, "God save the mark."

The little poem which introduces this article is from the Washington Post. The title is the first line: "If all who hate would love us." The author appreciated the human interest side of life and so he outlines what this old world would be if the motive power was love and all the graces which it inspires. He says "Let us be as the French people that they are so thoroughly indignant that the whole nation is mad at the enemy. And who can blame them? Not satisfied with rapine and murder, the German army has devastated the land, and burned and ruthlessly destroyed all kinds of property, if the French army ever gets them on the run, their own soil there will be no retreat, until the enemy is swallowed in the North sea."

While the people of this country have no personal grievance of this kind, they have a world of sympathy for the oppressed of France and Belgium, and they will rally to their support.

The culmination of hatred is murder, but this is only one form of expression. Hate is the absence of love, and where love is absent, all sorts of calamities are likely to occur. The cemeteries of the land are crowded with people who died prematurely because the heart failed to receive nourishment.

Men are found in all communities who are possessed of the notion that the only thing which the wife and mother needs to make her comfortable and happy, is food and raiment. They like to be known as good providers, and when the wife passes on, years before her time, they like to say on a marble slab "To the memory of my beloved wife." Poor Mary! Too far gone to know that she was ever loved, after the brief honeymoon.

These conditions, which exist in too many homes, are not always the result of hatred. They are often evidence of supreme selfishness on the part of the head of the household, and through carelessness and neglect the wife breaks down under the unequal burden.

It is an old saying that "familiarity breeds contempt." The trouble with too many homes is that they don't stand the test of close association. Back in the days of courtship, Mary was the smartest and best looking girl in the neighborhood, but ten years later, when the roses have faded from her cheeks, John sometimes wonders why he ever thought her handsome.

When she married him she thought him the smartest young man in town, but after ten years his income has not increased, to any great extent, and while the neighbors across the way support a Ford, she is still pushing a perambulator, and to whether John has met her expectations.

These are the homely experiences of every day life, but they determine whether love and sacrifice shall make the home happy, or whether indifference and neglect shall develop to be followed by a feeling akin to hatred. Love is a tonic which stimulates the heart to action. It brings a smile to the face and a word of good cheer to the voice. It sees the beautiful in nature and always recognizes the best in human character. The love that is genuine is a love of sacrifice, like the love of a mother.

It is easy to love a good woman, but more difficult to love humanity. One of the great issues of life will test our love for the human family and the unselfishness of that love will find expression through sacrifice. Are we ready to do our part?

HIS RUIN.
If young wives were never jealous
And if husbands all were true,
And if pampered sons were zealous
And if work and saving, too;
And if marriages had no hitches
Nor the least of stress or strife
And the belles who wed for riches
Never lived a loveless life.

If all wealthy men were kindly
And not rascals, cruel as well,
And if widows never blunder
Put their savings in a shell;
And if heroes, pure and youthful,
Were not so full of love and pride
(With the loveless of hair)
Never fell in an untruthful
And deceitful woman's snare;

If all loves the vampires sever
Baby pleadings might restore,
And if heroes, pure and youthful,
Driven harshly from the door,
Then brighter world would be much
Fairer far would be our lots,
But how sad would be the writer
Of the moving picture plots!

If he reforms himself.

Anyone who has mailed a letter at all knows that you have to keep cool. The man with steady nerves and a calm nature is the one who can mail letters. You will soon make a fool of yourself at mailing a letter if you are not tempered.

After the letter is addressed and stamped you put it in your pocket and make a mental note. Mail-box letters that you see in goes the little old letter. The curious thing is that you always feel rather cheerful over it at first. Simple enough to chuck a letter in a mail-box.

How seldom, as they moralize between scenes in the movies, "how seldom do we learn from our bitter lessons of the past."
You set out to mail the letter. It is in an inside pocket. After passing several boxes before thinking of it again you realize that you must brace up and put yourself together.
This thing can't go on. You take the letter out of your pocket and carry it in your hand.

It occurs to you that any mail-box will suit your purpose so you look around for one. Here is where you are going to lose your head unless you have a grip on yourself. After twenty minutes' search for a mailbox you are not sure that you would know one if you saw it. At any rate there are none to be found. Mailmen, mailbags, male dogs,—but no mail-boxes.

In all the world there are no mailboxes as if the earth had opened and swallowed them up.

You lean against a lamp-post till your strength returns and your head clears over the bumps and something hard, painted green. It says "Letters" on it, but in your delerium you can't tell what that means. You only know there's a sort of hole near the top of it where one could poke things in. You look at the hateful object, smudged and grimy, in your clammy fist. You glance about to see if anyone is looking.
You thrust the hateful object in the hole.

You sneak away.
Hard Boiled,
He is the tightest rat, by heck,

For though he often sees the check
He'll very seldom seize it.

It was toward the end of the close of the last act on the last night of Shakespeare's "Shaming of the True" when Birdie Jay, the leading lady, fell from her perch in the dried apple tree with dismay. For her eyes had suddenly peered through the leaves upon the head of the man who she kept her diamond-studded purse.

"My diamonds!" she screamed as she burst into the room, fearful and trembling. "Ten superb diamonds have been stolen with my handbag."

"Oh, don't let a trifle like that worry you," soothingly remarked the theatrical manager. "A dollar bill in the bag, too!" sobbed the leading lady. "Oh, that's different!" he remarked gravely. "Quite different. I'll send for a detective at once!"

FINAL ADJOURNMENT PLANNED FOR MONDAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., July 14.—The legislature will be brought to a close on Monday. Letters to the absent members were sent out today by the presiding officers so that all who are interested in seeing the legislature close will have an opportunity to do so. Monday's session will begin at ten o'clock and the adjournment sine die will be made some time during the day. That the work is finally completed upwards of 700 laws will have been enacted. The most important measure still in the hands of the governor is the drainage bill, which codifies all the drainage laws on the statute books and simplifies the procedure. Besides this there are several corrective measures.

The assembly has sustained Governor Philipp's veto of the Saugen bill which would increase the rate which the state would have to pay for the care of the chronic insane from $1.75 to $2.25 per week per patient. As the state pays only one-half of the cost, this means that the total amount that the state and county would pay for the care of the insane would be increased from a total of $3.50 at present to $4.50. Governor Philipp points out that the state receives from the counties at present for the care of insane in state hospitals. He computed that the additional burden on the state, if the bill were allowed to become a law, would have been $300,000 for the next biennium.

If the state's interests had been properly protected by giving it the same increased allowance that is given to the county the proposed law would not have produced as great an inequality and I would have given it my approval. The governor. The bill was asked for by the county asylum association of the state, which declared that the present ratio was too low. The senate has sustained the veto of the bill directing direct appeals from the county court to the supreme court.

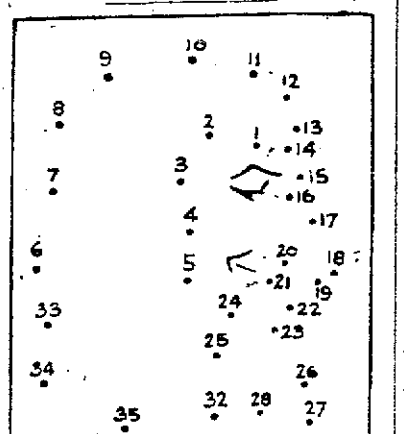

AMERICA'S BOARD OF WAR DIRECTORS.

Daniel Willard, Acting Director of the Board of War, is president of the Baltimore and Ohio, the government has so coordinated the railroads of the country that they now work as one large system under the direction of Willard. Of course, it's breaking the law for a combination of this sort to be effected, but right now the government is not worrying over a few laws which may be beneficial, and again may not.

Daniel Willard started in the railroad business as a track worker. He has worked in practically every position from there to the top.

The co-ordination of transportation facilities is vital to the defense of a nation with an army as small and a coast line as long as that of the United States. It is this work which Daniel Willard has recently completed. He is virtually head of the entire railroad system of the United States, some 260,000 miles.

Daniel Willard is just "solid men" clear through. He is, however, terrible "gun shy" of newspaper reporters, and photographers he has dictated to say "I don't like the best man in the world to take dictation from."

ALL BOOZE YOU WANT IN RUSSIA ONLY YOU MUST PAY BIG PRICE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Petrograd, July 14.—Russia never has been dry. Under the old censorship of the days of czarism no correspondent would have been permitted to send this fact to the outside world. But now the truth may be told.

The Russian government officials discovered that it pleased the czar's side world as being the sponsor of prohibition in Russia and they did all they could in the way of giving out erroneous impressions as to the extent of the dry wave in Russia.

Tussia did go dry—for the peasants. But the czar's famous prohibition law was so arranged that any man with money enough could get all the liquor he desired. The government manufacture of vodka was stopped and a law was passed prohibiting the sale of any liquor containing more than 3 per cent alcohol. The importation of wine did not cease. The price of champagne went up to $25 a bottle with other prices in proportion. The popular cabarets, hotels and restaurants served wines and china pitchers and china cups, but everywhere the man with money was able to have all his liquor orders filled to his smallest whim.

Foreigners were permitted to purchase all liquors in the shops provided they presented permits issued by their embassies. There was no law of any kind that prevented a citizen from having liquor on his premises or from drinking it.

The revolution, which put the workmen and soldiers committee into power, practically made Russia dry for the first time. Today a few daring hotel keepers will sell a bottle of cognac for from twenty-five to forty dollars or a small bottle of ordinary claret for from ten to fifteen. The importation of any sort of potable alcohol has ceased and the high price of liquor is really due to its scarcity in the country. Russia is rapidly becoming "bone dry."

There is no doubt in the minds of Russians that their revolution was practically bloodless because it was practically boozeless. There are some Russian leaders who say that it was the absence of alcohol that made the revolution possible. A Socialist leader said to me: "One of the greatest mistakes the czar ever made was to make the peasants sober up. He took the peasants and made them sober; he gave them good clothes in the way of military uniforms and he gave each peasant rifle and taught him how to shoot. He thought he was turning the peasants into soldiers but they remained peasants at heart. When the right time came these sober peasants turned their guns on him."

BEAVER DAM MAY BUY ELECTRIC LIGHT PLANT

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Beaver Dam, July 14.—Consideration of the purchase of the local electric light plant by the city is attracting state wide attention. Should the move go through, Beaver Dam will be one of the few cities in the state operating its own lighting and power plant.

DEFENSE AWAITED IN CASE OVER FORD DAM

FARMERS TESTIFY THAT OVER 5000 ACRES OF LAND ARE INUNDATED—ASK LOW-ERING OF DAM.

EXPERTS TO TESTIFY

Petitioners Claim Power Company is Not Living Up to Provisions of Charter.

That large tracts of land are flooded, that these flood conditions are caused to a large extent by the Indiana Electric power company, and that the owners of the land affected want the railroad commission to do something to alleviate the conditions, was the substance of testimony given by the owners of the land affected in the case of the owners against the local electric company at the hearing conducted by the railroad commission yesterday at Fort Atkinson.

Evidence, verbal and photographic, of the flood conditions and testimony of engineers who have made extensive surveys in the flooded districts and measurements at the dam were brought out by the farmers and their attorneys, Paul Grubb of Edgeland and Fred C. Burpee of this city. The power company retained opportunity to study the evidence and the case was continued until some time next week, when the hearing will be resumed at Madison.

Controversy over the question already bids fair to be as involved as is that of the many water questions which have arisen throughout the state in connection with almost every dam of importance since the earliest days of power development. The charter for the Indiana Ford dam was granted in 1843 to Clenden and Lutz. It provided for a dam not to exceed four feet above the ordinary height of the water. In 1913 this grant was amended by the legislature to permit a dam to be built to a height of ten feet above the ordinary height of the water. The present petition of the property owners whose lands have been inundated is to make the power company live up to the provisions of their charter, if they are not already doing so.

Appearing before Commissioners John S. Allen of Lake Geneva and Jackson of Oshkosh, yesterday were the farmers and their attorneys and engineers and representatives of the electric company, the defense of whose case rests in the hands of the firm of Jeffris, Mount, Oestreich, Avery and Johnson, of Madison. One of the greatest hydraulic engineers in the country has been secured by the electric company to study the defense and report on the charges, before the case again appears before the commission.

It was maintained by the farmers that there are five and six thousand acres of land were inundated, and that a large part of this was due to the height of the dam backing up water in excess of the amount specified in the specifications of the law. Though they recognize that the water for the last few weeks has been exceedingly high, and do not contend that the present flood conditions are normal, they do affirm that even with normal water the dam backs up large quantities of water, and that much valuable hay and other crops are being lost.

A number of photographs were displayed showing flood conditions; one man living over a mile north of Lake Koshkong testified that thirty acres of his land were under water, that he had on pasture for his cattle, and that he had been obliged to sell them to prevent their starving. Similar complaints regarding the situation were made by many of the one hundred and fifty farmers who had gathered there for the hearing.

Much controversy has arisen over the location of the crest of the old dam, and its height in relation to that of the new concrete dam which was put in last summer. That the old dam was under water, and that the present dam is still in the river bed, and rises to such a height that it adds materially to the backing up of the water, is another possibility mentioned in the petition of the farmers.

That the piers and filling under the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad bridge constitute a large factor in bringing about the conditions is another phase of the question, and it is claimed that in high water the rock and gravel dumped in the river bed at that point back up the water and that the dam itself is higher now than the dam itself, though it is now that the dam is practically no effect from this source.

The main contention of the farmers and property owners is that the dam is not constructed in accordance with the provisions of the charter, but with the mass of evidence and testimony on either side and the reports of hydraulic engineers regarding the situation, it is to be made, the prediction as to the outcome of the case is not within the law in maintaining a dam which they claim to be higher than specified in the charter. Whether their claims will be sustained or not, the power company remains to be seen when the case is again called next week.

LOCAL COMPANY ALL READY TO MOBILIZE

COMPANY M TO ASSEMBLE TOMORROW MORNING AT EIGHT O'CLOCK FOR MOBILIZATION INTO U. S. SERVICE.

INTENSIVE TRAINING

Is The Program For The Men During Stay at Local Armory—Still Need Six Men.

When the bugle blows "drill call" at eight o'clock tomorrow morning, one hundred and forty-four men, members of Company M of the First Wisconsin Infantry, will assemble for mobilization into federal service for eventual duty probably somewhere in the far west. The men have been made by Captain E. N. Caldwell and his officers for the calling out of the local unit and the period of intensive training previous to their training for the concentration base at Camp Douglas, where the entire guard of the state will be assembled.

A vigorous program has been outlined for the day's routine of drill while the men are on duty in the city, beginning with "first call" at half past five in the morning and guiding the daily life of the men through "taps" at eight o'clock at night. Every morning, except Sunday, the men will drill from eight until eleven, and in the afternoon from half past one until half past three.

They will get up by call, eat at the times dictated by the bugler and go to bed at a definite hour. Everything will be just as it is in the army, and the men will be treated as soldiers in dead earnest. Rigorous enforcement of all the military regulations and company rules is the plan of the captain.

A guard house has been fitted up in the men's cloak room at the armory and into its gloomy depths will be thrown every man who breaks the rules. According to the captain, no man who fails to attend every drill of the company during the period of their mobilization, or to any member of the company who is known to have been in a saloon or to have had liquor on his person.

There follows the daily routine:—
First Call—4:30 A. M.
Review—5:40 A. M.
Assembly—6:45 A. M.
Mess Call—6:00 A. M.
Fatigue—7:00 A. M.
Drill Call—7:50 A. M.
Assembly—8:00 A. M.
Recall—11:00 A. M.
Mess Call—12:00 P. M.
Drill Call—1:30 P. M.
Assembly—2:30 P. M.
Recall—3:30 P. M.
Guard Mount—4:45 P. M.
Adjutant's Call—4:55 P. M.
Assembly—5:00 P. M.
School—5:15 P. M.
First Call—5:50 P. M.
Recall—6:00 P. M.
Retreat—8:10 P. M.
Mess Call—8:30 P. M.
Assembly—9:00 P. M.
Taps—10:00 P. M.

This program will prevail every day except Sundays, when the drill is suspended. The schedule of the church is sounded about ten o'clock. Should the company remain in the local armory over a week, the entire company will march to service at the local churches. Tomorrow much of the day will be devoted to details of arrangements, and to the giving of instructions to the men regarding their duties and responsibilities. At 1:50 in the afternoon assembly will be sounded, and the men will be lined up for to be examined for any possible infectious or contagious diseases.

Every man in the company, whether he lives in Janesville or not must be on hand at eight o'clock tomorrow morning or receive the usual punishment. The men will be drilled in detail part of the time, though they will all go together on the short hikes and some of the time they will be drilled in the company who have been in the longest will drill together, while the "rookies" will be put into awkward squads for speedy rounding into shape.

At this time there are only sixty-seven rifles in the equipment of the company and as no more equipment will be issued to the men until they arrive at Camp Douglas, the company will have to drill with these guns. The unit will probably be divided up, so that each group will be given training in the manual of arms while the rifles are being drilled in the school of the soldier.

A new photograph of the latest type has been purchased out of the company fund, to provide a certain number of the men, and an appeal is made to the citizens of Janesville to donate disc records to the company. About thirty were received in response to the last appeal, and more records are needed badly.

No new men have been received since yesterday, despite the fact that a number of applications are yet to be heard from. Every effort is being made after the company has been mobilized, to bring its enrollment up to war strength quota.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Kimberley of Ravine street returned from a ten days visit in Monroe, Wis., last evening. While there they enjoyed a two hundred mile automobile ride, through the rich country and cheese making country. They report great prosperity in Green county.

Mr. and Mrs. August Neitzel and daughter, Erna, are visiting relatives in Milwaukee for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert McGuigan of Washington street have returned from an automobile trip to Silver Lake, Delavan, taking in all a two weeks' trip.

Doctor and Mrs. F. G. Wolcott of Clark street have returned from a two weeks' outing at the Carcajou Club at Lake Koshkong.

A Minnick of Milwaukee street was a business visitor in Milwaukee on Friday.

George Clark of South Bluff street spent Friday evening in Chicago.

Mr. Curtis was a Milwaukee visitor on Thursday.

Bruce Jeffris, son of Mrs. Thomas Jeffris, of South Jackson street, will come home this evening for a few days' visit. He has enlisted in the U. S. Navy and is on the Mosquito fleet, patrolling the coast of Massachusetts.

Master Harry Rabor of 15 North Wisconsin street, who underwent an operation at the Mercy hospital on Thursday, is gaining slowly.

Miss Gladys Elton, of 620 Glen street, has gone to Chicago for three or four weeks on a visit.

A. A. Hartman is spending several days in Michigan on business. Mrs. John McVicar and Mrs. Ben Palmer were visitors at Wales, Wis., yesterday.

C. J. Bridges of the Golden Eagle left for New York City this morning.

"BEAT THE FORT" CARDINAL SHOUT IN GAME SUNDAY

Players and Fans Alike Adopt Slogan—"Plague" Hanson to Oppose Rebels' Great Jarman.

Half of Fort Atkinson is coming to Janesville tomorrow to root for the home-town Rebels in the big game against the Cardinals at the Driving Park. The telegram to Secretary Kuhn this morning advised having lots of room reserved for the Fort bunch as they were going to come down in train and most from indications last night the only person home would be the village constable.

There isn't a particle of doubt but that the Rebels were "loading up" anything but authentic. It is certain that the Fort management is out to win at any cost and incidentally keep the Cardinals from moving into the Cardinals' home town. They will do it if the Bower City aggregation takes the victory. Who and what the Fort has secured for the game is unknown but it is known that the array to face the Cards will be an A. No. 1 aggregation.

Not to be outdone and in line with the policy of strengthening the team since the beginning of the season the Cards this morning signed up Nagel (ever hear of him before? who is) playing with Chicago semi-pro teams, to cover second. Eberts, who most probably will lead the team on the mound tomorrow, looked like a second-sacker and this morning he wired that he would be on deck.

"Plague" Hanson will appear before Janesville fans for the first time when he starts against Jarman, the Fort's leaguer. If "Plague" can continue to live up to his monicker tomorrow then he's going to be the idol of the day. Hanson is only a youngster but he has the stuff and loads of it. Peina will start at first.

Managers Langdon and Kuhn are hoping for a big attendance tomorrow. They have been working hard all week to arouse Janesville sports blood to get a big crowd out. It appears that their efforts have been successful as there was lots of talk about the game on the street today. The one slogan was "Beat The Fort."

EVENING GAMES AT CITY PLAYGROUNDS

League for Younger Men Will Be Formed at Four Playgrounds on Monday Evening.

The organization of the indoor baseball teams on the four playgrounds of the city will take place Monday evening. These teams will play the first game which will be composed of the young men of the city who are unable to attend the grounds during the day. It is the desire of Director Hemmings to have all the young men possible take advantage of this opportunity to play indoor baseball in the evenings.

At seven o'clock Monday evening the organization will take place at the Washington school and it is expected that the Washington school and Mr. Raymond at the Jefferson. At seven o'clock Director Hemmings will be at the Webster school and Mr. Raymond at the Adams for the organizing of the two teams.

The schedule of games for the league will be announced Monday. It is planned to have two games for each team each week. The schedule will start on Thursday. No restrictions are being placed on who can play at the present time. All the young men will be allowed to try for places on the team and it is expected that many older baseball players will be on hand to get in on the fun.

The first game of the girls' baseball league was played Friday afternoon. The Jefferson won from the Washington by the score of 23 to 8 in a hotly contested game. The score does not indicate the closeness of the play. The Adams put up a strong game but did not get the breaks in the field. They will next week in preparation they should win their next contest. At the Washington school the Webster won in a game which was on edge throughout. The final score was 28 to 16. The Webster scored six runs in the fourth inning and gained a lead but the Washington followed with seven in their half of the inning. A final rally in the last inning turned the game into a victory for the Webster.

INSPECT SITE FOR STATE PRISON FARM

Madison, Wis., July 14.—During the week the state board of control, members of the state conservation commission and the land office have conducted an investigation of tracts of land in the counties of Vilas, Langlade and Oneida preparatory to establishing the large prison farm authorized by the legislature. The investigation party were expected back to Madison tonight, although word which reached here today says that no definite site has been selected.

A further investigation of lands will be made in the northern part of the state during the next two weeks and it is stated here today that by September 1 the site will have been selected. The bill passed by the legislature provides for the establishment of prison farm or farms in the aggregate not to exceed 5,000 acres to be used in raising crops to cut down the cost of living for the different charitable and penal institutions. These lands must be within the state forestry reserve in northern Wisconsin.

By September 1 it is expected that it will be possible to send some of the prisoners at Waupun to the selected site to clear the lands preparatory to planting crops next spring. Just at the present time it would be difficult to spare prison labor. About sixty convicts are employed on the building of the home for the feeble-minded at Union Grove; about forty are employed on the home for the blind at Dodge; forty are employed in the stone quarry camp at Chester, and there are five convict road gangs working in Dodge and Fond du Lac counties.

The success in working men away from the prison has been demonstrated during the past few years. The session of the legislature now drawing to a close has passed a bill giving additional time of to convicts who remain on their honor, while employed outside of the prison. The plan for a large prison farm was advanced by the state board of control and the bill passed by the legislature practically without opposition.

The Real Adventure

A NOVEL

By Henry Kittell Webster

CHAPTER XX.

Anteliamax.

It was out of the limbo of the unforeseeable that the blind instrument of Fate appeared to tell Rodney about Ross. He was a country lawyer from down-state, who had been in Chicago three or four days, spending an hour or two of every day in Rodney's office in consultation with him, and, for the most of the time, dangling about, more or less at a loose end. A belated sense of this struck Rodney at the end of their last consultation.

"I'm sorry I haven't been able to do more," Rodney said—"do anything, really, in the way of showing you a good time. As a matter of fact, I've spent every evening this week here in the office."

"Oh, I haven't lacked for entertainment," the man said. "We have seeds find the city a pretty lively place. I went to see a show just last night called 'The Girl Up-Stairs.' I suppose you've seen it."

"No," said Rodney. "I haven't."

"Well, it was downright funny. I haven't laughed so hard in a year. If you want a real good time, you go to see it."

The last part of this conversation took place in the outer office. Rodney saw the man off with a final handshake, closed the door after him, and strode irresolutely back toward Miss Beach's desk.

It was true, he'd been taking it on rather recklessly during the past two months. But they'd been pretty shrewd, these long, solitary evening hours. He'd worked dutifully, grinding away by brute strength for a while, and then, in a frenzy of impatience, thrusting the legal rubbish out of the way and letting the enigma of his great failure usurp his mind and his memories.

"Telephone over to the University club," he said suddenly to Miss Beach. "and see if you can get me a seat for 'The Girl Up-Stairs.'"

The office boy was out on an errand and in his absence the switchboard, in Miss Beach's care, arose obediently and moved over to the switchboard, then began fumbling with the directory.

"Why, Miss Beach!" said Rodney. "You know the number of the University club?"

He was looking at her now with undisguised curiosity. She was acting, for a perfectly inflexible machine like Miss Beach, almost queer. Without looking around at him, she said: "Mr. Aldrich, you won't like that show. If you go, you'll be sorry."

While he was still staring at her, young Craig came bustling blithely out of his office. "Oh, Miss Beach!" he said, and then stopped short, seeing that something had happened.

Rodney tried an experiment. "Craig," he said, "Miss Beach doesn't want me to see 'The Girl Up-Stairs.' She says I won't like it. Do you agree with her?"

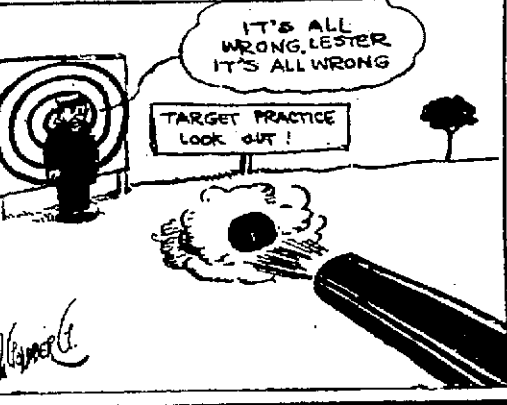

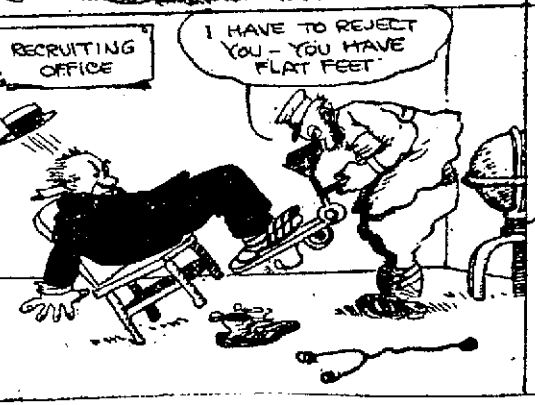

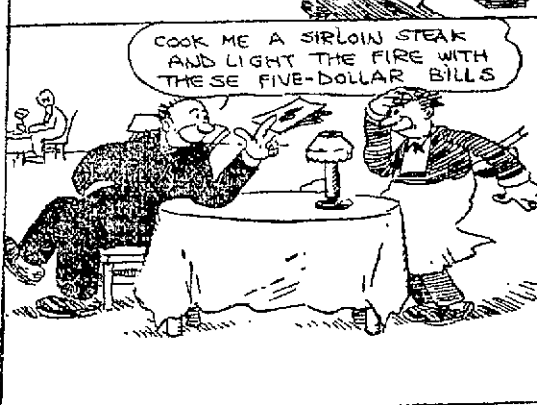

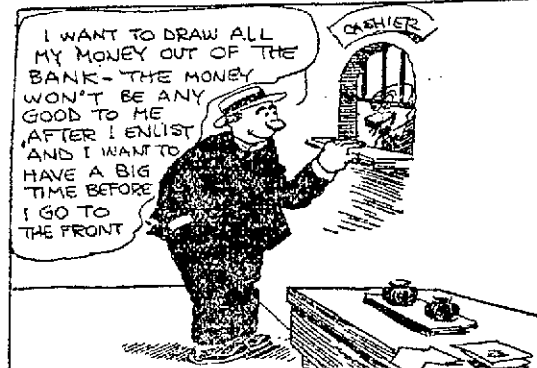

A flare of red came into the boy's face, and his jaw dropped. Then, as well as he could, he pulled himself together. "Yes, sir," he said, swung around, and marched back into his own cubbyhole.

"You needn't telephone, Miss Beach," said Rodney curtly. And, without another word, he put on his hat and overcoat, walked straight over to the club and told the man at the cigar counter to get him a ticket for tonight's performance of "The Girl Up-Stairs."

It was after five, and he decided he might as well dine here. So he went up to the lounge, armed himself with an evening paper, and dropped into a big leather chair.

But all his carefully contrived environment hadn't the power, it seemed, to shift the current of his thoughts. They went on dwelling on the behavior of Miss Beach and young Craig, which really got queerer the more one thought about it.

He flung down his paper and went into the adjoining room. The large round table nearest the door was pre-empted by a group of men he knew, and he came up with the intention of dropping into the one vacant chair. But just before the first of them caught a glimpse of him his ear picked up the phrase "The Girl Up-Stairs." And then a lawyer in the group looked up and recognized him. "Hello, Aldrich," he said, and the flash of silence that followed had a galvanic quality. The others began urging him to sit down, but he said he was looking for somebody, and walked away down the room, and out the farther off side by side after the three little girls, but slower. In an accumulation of shadows, half way down the alley, he gripped her arm tight and they both stood still. The next moment, and without a word, they moved on again. Finally—"Are you all right Roddy? And the babies?" she managed to say. "It's a good many days since I've heard from you." And then, suddenly: "Was it because anything had gone wrong that you came?"

"I didn't know you were here until I saw you on the stage," he said. "This was all, in words, that passed until he looked about him in a sort of dazed bewilderment when she stopped, at last, at the stoop before her door. "Where's where I live," she said.

"Where you live?" he echoed blankly.

Dinner Stories

While visiting in the Highlands of Scotland last summer a little old English lady made use of an ear-trumpet when she attended divine service. Such a contrivance being entirely unknown in those simple parts, it caused much excited discussion, and finally one of the elders was deputed to deal with the lady. On the following Sunday the unconcerned offender again appeared, and again produced the much-discussed trumpet, whereupon the chosen elder rose from his seat and marched down the aisle to where the old lady sat, and, raising an admonitory finger, said severely: "The first too, ye're out!"

Three o'clock was the very earliest that a man could get up to the store, his wife asked him to meet her there.

"I don't know in what department I shall be at that time," she said, "but just before 3 o'clock, I will telephone to the clerk at the information bureau near the main entrance, and if you will just step over and ask him he will tell you where I am."

At two minutes past 3 the man sought information as to the whereabouts of his wife.

"I have a message," said the clerk, "from a woman who said her husband would inquire for her about 3 o'clock. Maybe it is for you. She said to tell you she had gone to Blank's store, over on Sixth avenue, to finish her shopping, because the clerks in this store are impatient, the place is ill-ventilated and she could not find anything she wanted here, anyhow, and never has been able to find anything here, and this is positively the last time she will ever try to find anything here. Of course that might not have been your wife."

"Oh, yes," said the man; "that was her, all right."

THE GAZETTE'S MOTORIST PROBLEM DEPARTMENT

(PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY.)

Motoring Department. The Gazette.—My Ford (1915) develops a musical squeak quite often when going into high gear, especially going slightly up grade, but not often when running free, over 15 miles an hour. Two good mechanics could not find the cause. One of them took out the back axle, examined the differential, then took out the transmission and examined it, then disconnected all eyes examined around the engine, etc., but could not locate the noise. The noise does not develop in low gear. The last Ford mechanic put on new brake bands on. The noise appeared to step them for a few days, but developed again slightly changed. No one seems to be able to locate the trouble, which apparently is not serious, but annoying, especially as the cause is unknown. Kindly state what you think is the cause of the noise, as early as possible, and oblige.

R. A. B.

Try a little grease on brake band. Oil on the universal joint might help. Squirt oil around fenders and hood. See if any part of car touches wheels.

Motoring Department. The Gazette.—The following are four questions I would like you to answer in your motorist column. (1) What serious damage is done to an auto motor when water in the cooling system gets into high speed. (2) In case a motor is overheated the spark plugs should be removed and the engine cranked by means of the starter to cool the pistons before each cylinder.

Motoring Department. The Gazette.—Please let me know how I can loosen the pistons in my motor, as they are stuck. I have tried to use a screwdriver and a screwdriver. I stopped it and put in cold water, and found I could not start it again as the pistons would not work.

M. S. B.

Four half a teaspoonful of kerosene into each cylinder. If any sign of looseness is apparent, try to start it with starting handle and surter together. Or have the car pushed and let it in the clutch and slowly revolve the engine. In case a motor is overheated the spark plugs should be removed and the engine cranked by means of the starter to cool the pistons before each cylinder.

Motoring Department. The Gazette.—Do not neglect the universal joint because it is hard to get at. It does a terrific amount of work and must be lubricated properly to stand the strain and also to transmit power without absorbing a great deal of it. It develops a peculiar thump, which gets worse very rapidly.

Jack up each wheel occasionally, and try the bearings by shaking or lifting the axle. If any sign of looseness is apparent, the bearing should be adjusted. If the front wheels are loose the play should be taken up by turning the play bolt. So make sure where it is before attempting to adjust it.

Many people realize that a tire will decay just by standing idle and doing nothing. Occasional use is of benefit, and about half a inch of water will do the trick. So it is well to put your spare shoe on a wheel for a few days every month just to keep it in condition.

Motoring Department. The Gazette.—I have a five-passenger car and I notice of late that when a certain spot on front wheels touches the ground, the car makes a peculiar noise. This noise is not a creak, but a sharp, sharp noise. Kindly advise me as to the cause and how to remedy it.

Motoring Department. The Gazette.—Will you kindly explain through your motorist column how to remove the bolts from the center crank bearing on a 1916 Ford. I have turned them back and ahead, but they do not back out. Also can you explain my trouble with a two-valve engine. I am getting a bad leak by closing the butterfly in the air valve of carburetor (two-valve Schaefer), recommended for two-valve.

English Cottage Type--a Distinctive Home

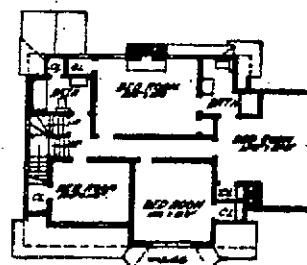

A certain amount of pride must be his who can say he is settled in this 32x34 home, covered with his exceedingly interesting and artistic thatched roof. The exterior is covered with cedar shingles dipped in Dixie White. The living and dining room have light from three sides. A nice mantel finds its lodgment on the right side of the living room. The dining room is made into an octagon, by china cabinets in three corners and a clothes closet in the fourth. The sunroom is accessible from both dining room and living room with French doors leading into rear garden. A refrigerator room is back of the kitchen, and a lavatory to the left of the hall. Four bedrooms with a closet off each and two bath rooms complete the second story. The third floor is finished with a maid's room, bath, and storage room.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

The basement is composed of fruit cellar, laundry and billiard room, the latter having a handsome brick mantel.

This home can be built for $7000. Blue prints and specifications for this house can be obtained from Robinson Greene, in charge of our "Homes of Character" Department, for $25.
